5.2. Non-attendance management

Byford John Calvin School tracks attendance through the twice daily use of SEQTA; a proprietary management system. The teacher in charge of the class will take the roll and any absences are recorded. Parents are requested to inform the school via emailing a specific email address, phone call, personal contact or note. Where no notification has been provided, the teacher will inform administration before 9.30. Administration will then contact the parents by phone, or where there is no response, will contact the emergency contact provided at enrolment. Absences are identified as approved or unapproved in accordance with the School Education Act.

Final Comments

I'd like to acknowledge the commitment of all those who contributed to making Byford John Calvin School a wonderful school in 2021. We were well supported in this by the school Council and the Board. We continued to enjoy strong parent support and involvement in the education of all our students. The teaching and administrative staff were exemplary in their dedication to their tasks particularly under the COVID19 situation.

Throughout the year, we were able to enjoy rich blessings and protection from our heavenly Father.

I recognise and thank the Australian Government for its financial and educational support, at both state and federal levels.

Mick ten-Haaf
Principal
